WHY TURKMENISTAN?

- Turkmenistan is one of the fastest-growing economies in the world, driven by its vast oil and gas reserves.
- As one of the world's largest energy exporters, Turkmenistan plays a key role in the global oil and gas market.
- The country offers significant opportunities in the oil and gas sector, from exploration and production to refining and petrochemicals.
- With the Caspian port, Turkmenistan has strengthened its position as the logistics hub for energy exports in Central Asia.
- In addition to oil and gas, Turkmenistan provides investment opportunities in related industries such as energy infrastructure, pipeline development, and petrochemical production.
- High import demand creates significant market potential for international suppliers in equipment, technology and engineering solutions.
- State-supported energy and infrastructure projects, refinery modernizations and new industrial investments generate a continuously expanding project pipeline.
- International companies benefit from opportunities to establish distributorships, partnerships and direct project connections.
